5. SERVICES OFFERED

(i) PHPL offers Discretionary, Non-Discretionary and Advisory Services to its clients in India and abroad. The minimum investment amount per Client as prescribed by SEBI under the Regulations is Rs. 50 lakhs, currently.

The investment objective is to seek long term capital appreciation by investing in a portfolio of listed companies, debt, and derivative instruments.

The investment strategy will focus on capital preservation, high risk-adjusted returns, low costs, and high liquidity. To attain the investment objective, the Portfolio Manager will focus on large cap market leaders from sectors that are witnessing growth and offer opportunity.

PE Fund

Stock selection and timing (buy/sell) of investment decisions are two key aspects taken care of by the Portfolio manager. In the case of PHPL's investment strategy, the timing of investment decisions will be based on the Equity Life Cycle (ELC). The ELC is mapped using the PE of the Nifty over a period. For a given fundamental scenario, price moves up and down based on factors like risk appetite, liquidity, macro risk and other similar systematic reasons which are not diversifiable and therefore the need to provide for standard deviation-based levels. Statistically, the range between $\pm 2\sigma$ (standard deviation) from the rolling Mean PE is where 95% of the trading takes place. Breaking this range above (Euphoric) or below (Despondency) is generally an outlier event and continues only for a short period before returning within the range. Investment returns are maximized when entry is around the lower band of the ELC and exit around the upper band.

The movement of PE happens due to both a change in Price (P) and change in Earnings (E). In a rising PE scenario, the sentiment is positive and is reflected in the higher prices and supported by earnings growth. However, as the prices start to move faster than the earnings there is PE expansion and eventually a euphoric scenario. The euphoria ends when the prices are no longer justifiable to the earnings offered and systemic risk events cause review. This marks the end of the ELC. On the corollary, as the PE reduces, the earnings cushion the prices up until the discount becomes too high and attractive indicating an end to the sell off and beginning of a new ELC. To reduce the risk of timing, the investment is staggered and predetermined based on moving standard deviation ranges on the Nifty PE levels. Unutilized amounts will be parked in Liquid funds. The objective of the method is to create wealth over the long term (5-7yrs) while minimizing risk. The predetermined staggered investment style avoids inaction freeze in uncertain times, while reducing risk to capital.

In the case of stock selection, the investment strategy is to invest in a portfolio of companies belonging to the large cap market leaders which primarily constitute the Nifty 50. It may also consist of ETFs (Nifty ETF, Midcap ETF). Selecting stocks from the large cap universe and those that have an established track record and leadership position will reduce risks that may arise due to lack of governance, product risk, information deficiency, liquidity, and volatility.

Top 100 Fund

Top 100 Fund was envisaged for investors with moderate risk appetite and return objective that provides alpha when compared to the index performance. The fund selects 25-40 fundamentally high-quality stocks for its portfolio from the Nifty 100. The stocks are selected based on their financial performance, weightage in the index and its price performance over a six-month period. The stocks thus selected are reviewed on a bi-annual basis and the under performers are replaced by the outperformers. The fund thus attempts to beat the benchmark by a process of excluding the underperformers. Since the portfolio will only consist of large cap stocks the portfolio risk is reduced significantly.

6. RISK FACTORS

(i) Share price of companies moves higher or lower due to various factors subjecting the investment to market risk. The Portfolio Manager does not provide any assurance or guarantee that the objectives of the investments will be achieved.

(ii) As the market is affected by continuously shifting scenarios such as changes in geo-politics, policy related, macroeconomic etc. the past performance of the Portfolio Manager does not indicate that there will be a similar performance in future.

(iii) In order to mitigate any risk to the Investment objective, investment strategy and asset allocation, it is important to have a realistic approach which is based on solid understanding of the market. The portfolio must be conceived with the dual focus on capital preservation along with a sustainable risk-adjusted return.

(iv) There are several factors affecting the market some of which are controllable and can be effectively managed (diversifiable risk), whereas others are not manageable (non-diversifiable). The manageable risks can be significantly reduced by meaningful diversification across sectors and in large cap stocks. The volatility created by risks that are not manageable can be used as an opportunity.
